Education is a progressive process which helps an individual to develop his psycho-physical capacities fully. Today’s education is child oriented. It aims at the wholesome development of the child. It means the all round development of the child. So the ultimate aim of the child is to produce healthy citizens. This cannot be possible unless the teacher himself is mentally healthy.

Mental health is the full and harmonious functioning of the whole personality. Mental health is the activity which helps us to seek adjustment in the difficult situations of our life. Mental Health plays a very important role in education. Mental health is needed for the proper growth of mental, physical, spiritual, moral and heart of students. Mental health is also needed for the proper socialization and for the development of skills among children and also needed for a healthy relationship between the students and the teachers between the teachers and the authority and between students and students. Educational institutions are the worst affected by growing indiscipline. This is because of the fact that students and teachers are by and large mentally unhealthy. So mental health is required so that the students and the teachers may be disciplined in their own ways. Mental health is very essential for education. The students, the teachers and authorities have to be mentally healthy. Now the question is how mental health of the students can be improved. In other words what measures can be taken to improve mental health of the students. In this connection there may be several methods but the teacher can improve the mental health of the students to a great extent.
